Averill Park, NY (AMI) September 15, 2009 — Physicians will receive 12 AMA Category 1 credits by attending the American Meditation Institute's (AMI), mind-body medicine CME course on meditation and yoga. The course will be taught by Leonard Perlmutter, founder and director of AMI, and award-winning author of "The Heart and Science of Yoga: A Blueprint for Peace, Happiness and Freedom from Fear". Noted physicians Mehmet Oz, Dean Ornish and Larry Dossey have endorsed Mr. Perlmutter's book, which serves as the curriculum for this mind-body medicine CME course. Significant among these therapies are meditation, yoga and deep breathing exercises—all of which are offered in “The Heart and Science of Yoga” curriculum. “By accrediting this course, the Albany Medical College has become a leading force in mind-body medicine,” Perlmutter said. “This accreditation will provide many benefits for the health and wellbeing of physicians and their patients.”

American Meditation: The Heart and Science of Yoga mind-body medicine CME course is a comprehensive survey of the historical, philosophical and scientific nature of meditation and yoga as taught in both the East and West.
